

John Perry Primary School

Promoting British Values Policy

Last Reviewed on: March 2023

Next review due by: March 2025

Promoting British Values at John Perry Primary School

“We want every school to promote the basic British Values of democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty, and mutual respect and tolerance for those of different faiths and beliefs.” Lord Nash

Teachers uphold public trust in the profession and maintain high standards of ethics and behaviour, within and outside school, by:

“not undermining fundamental British Values, including democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty and mutual respect, and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs “ (Teachers Standards 9d)

The government set out its definition of British values in the 2011 Prevent Strategy and these values were reiterated by the Prime Minister in 2014. The Government emphasises that schools are required to ensure that key ‘British Values’ are taught in all UK schools.

Schools, through their curriculum, are legally bound actively to promote the fundamental British Values:

- Democracy – Respect for democracy and support for participation in the democratic process
- The rule of law – respect for the basis on which the law is made and applies in England
- Individual liberty – support and respect for the liberties of all within the law
- Mutual respect – respect for all
- Tolerance of those of different faiths and beliefs – tolerance of different faiths and religious and other beliefs

At John Perry Primary, these values are reinforced regularly through our own School Values:

- To be kind, thoughtful, respectful and tolerant
- To be resilient, have a positive attitude and believe in yourself
- To demonstrate a strong sense of responsibility

A key part of our plan for education is to ensure children become valuable and fully rounded members of society who treat others with respect and leave school fully prepared for life in modern Britain. British Values are promoted through the curriculum as well as within the life, values and work of the school. They are explicitly taught as part of our PSHE curriculum and we dedicate a number of Word of the Week assemblies to explore, promote and celebrate British Values. Additionally, the values are taught in R.E. and interwoven within our curriculum, which gives children real and meaningful opportunities to explore these values. At John Perry, we are certain that the active promotion of British Values means that children are enabled to develop a sense of community and begin to develop their understanding of their role and responsibilities within it.

Democracy

The children learn about democracy in a range of contexts which are meaningful to them. Democracy is richly embedded within the school. Our whole school systems and structures lend themselves to the active promotion democracy. For example, all children take part in a democratic school council election process and elected children run a successful school council which plays an integral role in the running of the school. Pupils have the opportunity to have their voices heard through our Pupil Voice, pupil questionnaires, meeting with the Headteacher and through being either a House Captain/House Vice-Captain, lunch-time monitor or a School Councillor. Our school behaviour policies involve rewards and sanctions; this is shared through all aspects of school life and also shared with parents, carers and children from Nursery to Year 6.

The children at John Perry have an opportunity to have an active role in decisions that are made and consequently prepare them for their role as future citizens and members of society. School Council members are elected each year, following speeches made in whole school assemblies by those wishing to represent the school. Our School Council meet regularly to discuss issues, monitor the work of the school, and agree ways in which provision for education can be further enhanced and developed.

The Rule of Law

Our pupils will encounter rules and laws throughout their entire lives. We want our pupils to understand that whether these laws govern the class, the school, the neighbourhood or the country, they are set for good reasons and must be adhered to.

The importance of rules are consistently reinforced through assemblies, in classes, around the school and through our curriculum throughout the day, as well as when dealing with behaviour. Clear structures provide a framework, within which the children can develop an understanding of how good laws and rules benefit everyone.

Children are taught the value and reasons behind laws and rules, that they govern and protect us, the responsibilities that this involves and the consequences when laws are broken. This is embedded through our School Values, school ethos, PSHE lessons and school assemblies. As a school we work to provide children with good role models to guide our pupils into making the right choices. This is also supported in the wider community through the use of visitors including police and fire-fighters.

Individual Liberty

We invest a great deal of time in creating a positive culture in our school, so that children are in a safe environment where choices and freedoms are encouraged and valued. Within school, children are actively encouraged to develop responsibility, think independently and make sensible choices, knowing that they are in a safe and supportive environment. Through the provision of a clear context for learning, and a framework of expectations, boundaries are provided, within which the children are safe and empowered to make choices.

Children are respected individuals, and are encouraged to know, understand and exercise their rights and personal freedoms and advised how to exercise those safely, for example through E-Safety lessons and workshops and through our Healthy Lifestyles lessons.

We offer a range of clubs which pupils have the freedom to choose from, based on their interests and skills. Through our E-Safety days, we educate children on their rights and personal freedoms as well as supporting them in recognising how to exercise these freedoms safely. In PSHE and R.E. lessons, all children are encouraged to share their opinions, beliefs and feelings in a safe way.

Pupils are further empowered through being part of our School council and being able to take part in pupil forums which link directly to the Strategic Leadership Team or Governors. Pupils are given the freedom to support fund raising events and the options to take on additional responsibilities such as House Captains or House Vice-Captains.

Mutual Respect

Mutual respect is at the heart of our values, and is clearly articulated in our Code of Conduct. The children learn to treat each other and staff with great respect. This is evident when walking around the School and in the classrooms. Each class draws up a set of class rules or a class agreement each year and use this to set the tone for the level of respect that is expected throughout the year.

Children learn that their behaviours have an effect on their own rights and those of others. All members of the school community treat each other with respect. At John Perry we take pride in participating in regular charity events and raising money for particular causes that are close to our hearts. As a school we continuously promote the importance of manners towards others and this is always evident with the children at John Perry, whether they are in school or outside of school. Additionally, we expect parents and carers to also advocate the use of manners and respect for others outside of school life.

At John Perry we also provide many opportunities to work as a team as part of raising the profile of mutual respect. This is encouraged through a range of contexts in school and outside of school including; whole school sports day events, Word of the Week assemblies, celebration of Black History Month, World Autism Awareness Week and World Mental Health week, as well as sports competitions and PSHE lessons.

Tolerance of those of Different Faiths and Beliefs

Tolerance is a value that is widely promoted as part of our school values ethos and is core to school life. We value the diverse ethnic background of all pupils and families and undertake a variety of events and lessons to celebrate these. We have found this approach to be enriching for all parties as it further educates and supports the understanding of tolerance and respect for the differences in our community and the wider world. Underpinning all of this are a range of curriculum themes, which include a study of diverse cultures and traditions through Religious Education lessons. We place a great emphasis on promoting diversity within the school and wider world. Collective worship and discussions involving prejudices and prejudice-based bullying have been followed up and supported by learning in RE and PSHE. Members of different faiths or religions are encouraged to share their knowledge to enhance learning within classes and the school during Faith Awareness Week.

We actively challenge pupils, staff or parents expressing opinions contrary to fundamental British Values, including 'extremist' views. These values are implicitly embedded through the ethos of our school and curriculum. They are reflected within each area of the curriculum and we are always working on ways that we can ensure that these values are enhanced.